

I do not consent to digital ID's in any form. I consider them undemocratic and a violation of my personal privacy. The potential for abuse is too great. With digital ID's the government would have the power under a situation deemed to be a 'crisis' to go into my bank account and freeze it if I do or say something that represents an opposing view to the present government narrative. The Canadian government has breached their citizens human rights by doing just that. The Chinese government uses the digital ID for surveillance and to impose a social credit system. I do not consent to any of this as I think a digital ID is a tool of an authoritarian government and something out of the pages of 1984- presented as being for citizens health, well being and convenience but really being about control, revenue and data as an economic commodity.
